Canadians Defeated Stampeder at Calgary—Five Goals Scored in Second Period

Calgary's One-Goal Lead in First Period Quickly Wiped Out in Second—On Verge of Tying Score in Third.

Canadians wound up their weekend road trip to Calgary and Turner Valley with one win and one loss.

Playing at Calgary Saturday evening, Canadians stood off a hair-raising finish by Stampeder and skated off the ice with a 5-4 decision. By their win, they moved into fourth place in the league, stepping past Edmonton Eskimos, who absorbed a 9-2 defeat from Drumheller.

Trailing by one goal at the end of the first period at Calgary on Saturday night, Coleman in 1:15 minutes in the second period wiped out the deficit and took a goal lead. Sprout being the sniper on both occasions. He scored three times and assisted in two to help Canadians rout Stampeder in this period. Stampeder blew up higher than a kite as five goals whistled past Goalie Hemming in the third period.

Goal scorers in this period were Sprout 3, Redsky 1, Joyce 1. Three assists were credited to Ben Redsky, two to Dan Sprout, two to "Sandy" Sanderson and one to Sid Stark.

In the third period Stampeder threw caution to the winds and scored two quick goals early in this period while Kwamsie rested in the cooler. At the fifteen minute mark, with another Canadian in the penalty box, Duchak scored to bring Stampeder only one goal behind Canadians. The last five minutes were a nightmare to local fans sitting listening intently at the radios as the commentator described play, with Stampeder inside the Canadians' blue line. Kemp played sensational as he stopped shot after shot. It was a happy team that skated off the ice and a still happier number of fans rose from their radios when the game finished.

Bad luck dogged Canadians' footsteps in their game against Turner Valley on Monday night. Two goals down after five minutes of play was the obstacle placed before the Canadians. The first goal rebounded off a Coleman player's stick onto Davis' stick close to goal and he fired the rubber past Kemp. Minutes later the puck was deflected off Kwamsie's body into the net. Lopichuk brought Canadians back into the game soon after the start of the second period. Oilers increased their lead to 4-1 and again Coleman showed a fighting spirit and narrowed the score to 4-3. Roche played a sensational game in goal and stopped many dangerous Coleman scoring threats. In the third period Oilers again went two up at midway through the period. Sprout,

CANADIANS' GOALIE

DAVE KEMP, whose play Saturday night aroused admiration of spectators and radio listeners.

Calgary people listening to the broadcast of the Stampeder versus Canadians at Calgary last Saturday night enjoyed the satisfaction of hearing the home town boys score five goals in the second period, after Stampeder had gained a one-goal lead in the first. But joy was almost turned to dismay as the Stampeder staged a comeback in the third, with three goals, and looked well on their way towards tying the score as the bell rang for the end of the game. Dave Kemp certainly saved the day for Coleman by his brilliant work in goal, and many a silent pat on the back went out to him by the hundreds of radio listeners in The Pass.

The extraordinary feature of the second period was that Canadians did not have the team at full strength on the ice only at brief intervals, owing to incurring so many penalties, and for a considerable part of the time they had only three players and the goalkeeper. Yet Calgary failed to score a goal, handicapped as Coleman was.

So discouraged was the radio announcer in the second period that he remarked "It looks like Calgary's swan song" as they failed to get organized at a time when they had the glorious chance of scoring, with a five-man forward line against three on the Coleman side.

Calgary supporters enthusiasts ran wild as they went on a scoring spree in the third, while people listening in the radio wondered what had gone wrong with Coleman, and almost prayed, near the end of the game, that something would happen to help them keep their then one-goal lead. It was a heartfelt relief when the final bell rang, putting Canadians in fourth place in the league standing.

The next game here is on Monday next against Turner Valley; followed by Drumheller on Feb. 4 (a Saturday night game), and Calgary on Feb. 6.

RATEPAYERS OF the town and school district will meet to-morrow (Friday) evening to hear the financial reports and the chairman of committees of the council and the school trustees. If there is as much interest taken in this meeting as there was in the revised assessment of the school district in 1938, the place should be well-filled.

ATTENTION is directed to the financial reports published in this issue. Concerning the school district financial report, further details will be given by Chairman Fraser in his report to the ratepayers. It should be of general interest in view of the objections raised against increased assessment. The revenue of the school district is about three times that of the town, and for that reason should create greater interest. Only by hearing explanations at the annual meeting can a true picture be gained of the financial administration of the district. The trustees give much time during the year in public service; they should at least be given the satisfaction of a good attendance at the meeting.

REGARDING the financial report of the council, it will be seen that though the finances are being wisely administered, about one fifth of the total revenue is being used for direct relief, minus a proportion of government aid. It plainly shows that this burden is not decreasing, and indications are that during 1939 there will be little lessening, if any, of the amount required for relief. Fortunately the town has been able to find employment for some of the relief recipients, thus lessening the net cost to the ratepayers. One of the biggest items of current expenditure is that of street lighting, yet at that the business area in particular is insufficiently illuminated, and frequent agitation has been made for an improvement. Compared with Blairmore, main street is in darkness, except for the few inadequate lights on telephone poles, while the approach to the railway station is without light. Main street deserves better treatment.

RATEPAYERS are urged to attend the meeting. By your attendance you can show a measure of appreciation to those on whom the responsibility rests of carrying on throughout the year the administration of school and municipal affairs.

How These Hockey Pictures Were Made

EVAN GUSHUL

These pictures were taken by Evan Gushul, of Blairmore, with his home-made miniature camera. It uses a vest pocket size film and the lens is a Kodak Anastigmat f-1.9, the best and fastest of its type, made by the Kodak Company. This lens is from their moving picture camera and after much planning and experimenting Evan built a camera to use with this powerful lens. To many curious people it appears that there must be magic connected with the camera, because Mr. Gushul does not use any flashes in taking these night shots. All the action shots, together with the candid close-ups of the hockey fans, were taken under the ordinary lighting of the Coleman arena, with instantaneous exposures. This method equals that used by photographers in the large cities, where pictures of professional players are taken in ordinary light, as flashes in New York and many places are forbidden while play is on. All these pictures had to be enlarged several diameters with a specially designed home-made miniature enlarging equipment, because the distance between the camera and the players around the net is about 45 feet. The clock in the background shows period and time when picture was taken.

A Worthy Objective

There are few Canadians who have not heard something of the work and achievements of Jack Miner, Canada's pioneer game conservationist, and thousands of Americans as well as Canadians have this grizzled nature lover to thank for the opportunity to now enjoy in both countries in hunting such noble birds as the Canada geese and other species of wild fowl which might to-day be extinct had it not been for the path blazed by Jack Miner over a quarter of a century ago.

While Jack Miner has become almost an international figure on this continent during that period and the fame of his home and bird sanctuary at Kingsville, Ontario, have spread far and wide, it is not so well known that further assistance than he is now getting is necessary if the institution which he has founded and operated so successfully for so many years is to be preserved to posterity and future generations are to be ensured an opportunity of visiting one of the foremost of this continent's assets.

The sanctuary which he established as far back as 1904 has served as a breeding ground for wild fowl in increasing numbers ever since and as a result has provided a breeding ground for birds for sportsmen in both Canada and the United States. In other words this has been for years and still is a source of supply of breeding stock, the overflow from which to-day enables large numbers of hunters to enjoy a sport which would otherwise have vanished for this time.

As a result of Jack Miner's system of tagging the birds which have gratefully accepted his hospitality, ever since 1909, he has a great deal of data available to support his contention that his refuge has been and still is a source of supply for the entire continent.

A Fount Of Inspiration

One of the greatest benefits which have been derived on both sides of the international boundary as a result of Jack Miner's work and his lectures has been the awakening of public consciousness to the value and importance of birds as an asset to both Canada and the United States and of the importance of a bird sanctuary to tourist traffic.

The efforts of the 78-year-old pioneer conservationist have, since he commenced his work, served as an inspiration to individual citizens, sportsmen's organizations and other groups as well as federal and local governments on both sides of the line to "go and do likewise." As a result in more recent years a chain of bird refuges and sanctuaries patterned after the famous Jack Miner sanctuary have been established throughout the United States, and in Canada thousands of acres have been set aside and developed for a similar purpose. Without these, and back of them the inspiration initiated by Jack Miner many of the best species of waterfowl would have suffered the fate of the carrier pigeon which were slaughtered in earlier days with an abandonment that staggered the world.

Were it not for instant public demand, largely aroused by Jack Miner's unselfish devotion of a life-time to a conservation program, the laws which have been placed on the statute books of legislatures and parliaments in both countries would never have been enacted nor would the agreement between the two countries which has afforded additional protection to migratory birds have been implemented, or if it had been, it would not have been effective.

Aid Is Needed

Jack Miner, though still well and active, has already passed the allotted span of mankind, but to what extent the work that he has done will be continued and the memory of what he has erected to bird life will be perpetuated, is not all certain, seeing that he was not in the habit of preserving such a valuable asset and have the means, rarely, to cause in a tangible fashion.

The Jack Miner Migratory Bird Foundation has been incorporated in Michigan as well as in Ontario by a special act of Parliament with the hope of raising a trust fund to endow and perpetuate Jack Miner's home and bird sanctuary so that this valuable enterprise will be able to carry on after Mr. Miner has passed on.

One can only hope that many wealthy Americans who, as sportsmen and bird lovers, have derived so much benefit from Jack Miner's achievements and who are interested in establishing natural parks for humanity will give some consideration to this important project. Museums for the display of dead specimens have been endowed by wealthy men and undoubtedly have their place in the scheme of things, but how much more important and of how much greater value it would be to perpetuate an institution like Jack Miner's which has an worthy objective the preservation and propagation of living wild life, a source of joy and pleasure not only to those who are living to-day but for countless generations in the future.

Larger Farm Income

Prospect Of Upward In Business Is Encouraging For 1938

Grister farms in western Canada, United with prospects for upturns in business both at home and abroad, have led the farm management department of the University of Saskatchewan to forecast that the total farm income during 1938 would be higher than in 1937.

Following an address to delegates attending the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Agricultural Societies Association at the university, Professor E. C. Hope called the farm management department's "Farm Outlook for Saskatchewan, for the year 1938," to the public. The forecast, based on many economic factors affecting primary products, was compiled by Professor Hope and by Hadley Van Fleet, who also is the farm management statistician.

In discussion of the outlook, Professor Hope drew attention to an important trend from the standpoint of consumption of agricultural products. "If history repeats itself, we will now begin to experience an increase in building and construction in Canada and the United States.

"The peak of this cycle of building and construction will be reached in the middle 1940's and the peak of employment also will be reached about that time. It is reasonable to assume the consumption of agricultural products will increase accordingly."

With prospects for an upturn in business here and abroad, the economist expected easing of trade restrictions to follow. "The basic trends, not the cause of them, he admitted.

Mr. Hope described the outturns issued in years past by his department as more than 80 per cent. accurate on the average. Since 1932, however, there had been a gradual increase in accuracy from 72 per cent. to 90 per cent. last year, he declared.

Canadian Prime Beef

New Commands Highest Price On The London Market

Canadian prime beef chilled in London has become the sensation of London's famed Smithfield market, where it commands a higher price than Scotch beef, Hon. Duncan Marshall (Lib., Feb.) said during debate on the address in the Senate.

Senator Marshall said the new method of shipment had been developed by Dr. A. M. Shaw, of the Dominion agriculture department's marketing service. Hung up in chilled railroad cars, the sides of beef were maintained at the same temperature crossing the Atlantic and during transfer to the market. Railways had cooperated to see that the car temperatures did not go below 32 degrees.

"Cattle killed in the city of Toronto—and within a few weeks there will be no cattle of Scotch origin—will be sent to Winnipeg and a few weeks later of cattle killed in Edmonton and Calgary—is shipped to the Smithfield market in London, where it commands a higher price than Scotch," the senator said.

"And when you speak about anything, you necessarily speak about the highest quality there is. Scotch short sides have sold on the Smithfield market for a higher price and for a longer period of time than any other kind of beef. Yet we have been able to kill beef in Toronto, ship it to Smithfield, then sell it for nearly one cent a pound more than Scotch beef was bringing at the time."

The chilled Canadian beef, he said, was "the talk of the Smithfield market. Formerly Canadian beef was laid on its sides in cars and stacked like cordwood. "We have developed now what we call baby beef. The trade name for it is 'fed calves', that is, young animals that have produced a carcass weighing around 400 to 500 pounds and some up to 550 pounds."

Because the railroad cars were seven feet high it was possible to hang the sides up instead of stacking them. Sides heavier than 400 pounds were cut off at the second rib and hung up.

Seventieth Annual Meeting

Royal Bank of Canada

Canadian and International Economic Situation Discussed By Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director. — Commends New Trade Agreements.—Points Out Failure of Economic Policies of Totalitarian States.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reviews Balance Sheet.—Continued Progress Shown.—Present Outlook Distinctly Encouraging.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

The situation abroad has been difficult, stated Mr. Wilson, and expressed the opinion that "fate will overtake the totalitarian countries in course of time, if their efforts to become strong are concentrated on the military point of view and disregard the first principles of sound economics." The decline in German exports had been acute since the September crisis.

"Data available indicate," he said, "that in 1938 total exports were actually less than in 1937 and the net of the world depression, the net of the world depression, and in the last two years prior to the Nazi regime."

"Internal business in Germany is exceedingly active and full employment has been achieved, but only at the cost of colossal deficit in the balance of payments. Indeed, one German authority has stated that an amount equal to 50% of the national income is absorbed by Germany's imports and exports. It was obvious," said Mr. Wilson, "that no country could pursue such a policy without producing serious inflation and, unless it were reversed, it would result in a continued lowering of the standard of living in Germany. These remarks apply with equal force to the Italian situation."

The decline in business activity in Great Britain had been arrested and business in the United States and since May last shown the most rapid recovery ever reported in its statistical annals.

Mr. Wilson also spoke with satisfaction of the closer co-operation and mutual understanding developed between Great Britain, France and the United States and also the countries of North and South America as evidenced at the recent Lima Conference.

"The outlook for Canadian business is again favourable and the upward trend would seem to be definitely reflected," concluded Mr. Wilson. "The international situation is still not clear, but the implications may develop in foreign affairs. Barring such an eventuality, I am sure we may look forward to 1939 with courage and confidence."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

Mr. Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, in reviewing the Annual Balance Sheet remarked that the net assets of the Royal Bank of Canada had reached the highest point since 1929 and total deposits had reached new record level. Current loans increased more rapidly than ever before and a more active demand for commercial loans was desirable.

Taxes had, however, become an ever increasing burden for the bank. "For every dollar distributed to shareholders in the way of dividends, said Mr. Dobson, "there is paid in taxes in Canada,"

Answering the criticism sometimes voiced that banks are investing too much a portion of their funds in Government bonds and too little in business loans, Mr. Dobson pointed out that "we cannot compel unwilling borrowers to use our surplus funds if, for various reasons, they are not prepared to do so." It would be a strange type of banker who would prefer the small return from Government bonds to the more remunerative commercial loans.

Mr. Dobson also pointed out that control of "credit" is not with the power of the Chartered Banks but with the provincial governments, which alone decide whether a policy of "easy" or "tight" money is to be pursued.

The attention of the shareholders was also drawn to the educational publicity through the newspapers and magazines. "It is to be hoped these articles will help to clarify in the public mind what banks are permitted to do and what they are not permitted to do, in the same emphatic way, how necessary a safe and sane banking policy is to the welfare of the country."

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Canada has experienced the more serious effects of the recession in business which first appeared in the United States about eighteen months ago, concluded Mr. Dobson. "The Canadian business has been comparatively stable and results achieved in 1938 could be regarded as reasonably satisfactory." The present outlook includes a number of factors which are encouraging to the future with confidence, as I believe few countries have as promising a future as has our own."

By their win Fernie broke their deadlock with the Blairmore club and now lead the Crows Nest junior league by a two point margin.

Fernie took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by Serak increased it to 3-0 on goals by Burt after seven minutes of play in the second period before Jenkins scored Coleman's first tally at the ten minute mark. They made it 4-1 before the period ended on a goal by Johnstone.

Three minutes remained in the third when Moores took Farano's pass to score Coleman's second goal. Two seconds remained when Baker beat the Coleman custodian for Fernie's fifth goal.

Coleman H. S. Hockey Team Loses to Bellevue

Playing at Coleman on Tuesday evening Bellevue high school team defeated the locals 3-2.

Poor clearance on the part of the defence resulted in the first two Bellevue goals.

Coleman came back strong in the second period to tie the score on goals by Kovac and Russell.

Early in the third period Paul and Rhodes broke away, Rhodes scoring on Paul's assist. Coleman pressed until the end of the period but lack of finish spoiled many scoring chances. The chief reason for the locals' defeat was the noticeable lack of combination.

Fine Work By Salvation Army

Regarding the excellent work done by The Army in Alberta in supplying meals to needy families, through the Texaco Nickel Club, an account of which was given in last week's War Cry, a Calgary newspaper says:

"The work of the officers and soldiers was beyond praise—it was truly wonderful. It meant organization activities for days in advance and on Monday, when the meals were served, it meant that wherever The Salvation Army was represented in this province and in parts of the adjoining provinces that most of the members of that splendid organization gave up their holiday, willingly and cheerfully to serve these meals, to clean up afterwards and to return the dishes and utensils to those from whom they were borrowed.

"Some realization of the work entailed and the spirit with which it was executed may be visualized from the fact that around 5000 meals were served to hungry folk over the festive season."

The Journal in Error-- Stands Corrected

Mr. James Cousins is an interested reader of this family journal, who takes a really live interest in all that it publishes. If he hadn't a steady job as one of Coleman's popular teachers, the publisher would be tempted to have him take the editorial chair, and permit us to fade into semi-retirement or obscurity. Some years ago a well-known lady reader in West Coleman passed on the information that she had seen the first robin of the season in the early spring. Jim came back the following week with the rejoinder that it wasn't a robin she had seen, but a bird with a funny name, though it may have resembled a robin.

The lady, nothing daunted, replied that she knew it was a robin, despite Mr. Cousin's authoritative description of the bird. Being asked how she knew it was a robin, she replied that she had plenty of time to see it was a robin, for she was taking a few minutes meditation in the "sentry box" in the back yard with the door open, while the bird sang blithely on a nearby fence rail.

This incident was recalled this week when Jim dropped in to tell us again we were in error in stating that the open-air rink was surrounded by dark pines and snow-clad hills. It states there are no pines there at all; that the trees are spruce and fir. Not knowing if they are "sheltering pines and hemlocks" of the forest primeval or just plain ordinary trees such as he describes, one has to bow to his superior knowledge, and express appreciation of his vigilance and the detection of our errors. It is well that someone keeps us straight on these details. That's the disadvantage of a newspaper making errors—the whole world notices them.

But if Jim keeps his eagle eye open we will appreciate it, otherwise we couldn't write of such interesting little incidents that cause a flutter of amusement among our vast circle of readers.

THEATRES

Coleman's theatre announces an interesting series for the week. Tonight and Friday at the Palace, "The Garden of the Moon," and comedy, novelty and amusements among our vast circle of readers.

Playing at Hillcrest on Friday, we will appreciate it, otherwise we couldn't write of such interesting little incidents that cause a flutter of amusement among our vast circle of readers.

Saturday and Monday a thrill-packed drama, "Little Tough Guy," with a special added attraction by the March of Time, entitled "Britain's Dilemma," which gives new angles on the European situation, will close capacity houses.

Tuesday and Wednesday, those who liked the Tarzan pictures, will again have an opportunity of seeing The Adventures of Tarzan, featuring the Olympic champions, Glenn Morris and Eleanor Holm in "Tarzan's Revenge."

Martha Raye and Bob Hope next Thursday and Friday will give a rollicking program in "Give Me a Smile."

Equally good programs are being shown at the Orpheum, Blairmore, and Cole's, Bellevue.

COLEMAN CALEDONIANS TO HONOR THE MEMORY OF ROBERT BURNS

On Friday evening in the Oddfellow's hall, Coleman Caledonian Society members and their friends will gather to honor the memory of Scotland's bard, Robert Burns. Rev. A. E. Larke, of Macleod, is expected to attend, while notables from Coleman and district are expected to preside at the banquet table and give speeches and toasts.

Mrs. John Anderson is president and Mrs. D. Kennedy is secretary-treasurer of the society this year.

"Canned degrees" and "diplomas" secured by mail-order courses are more or less a joke against the student, and a fine racket for the promoters.

from Redisky, reduced the leeway. A five-man offensive late in the game back-fired and Oilers took advantage of it to score their sixth goal.

Sprout 2, Lopichuk 1, and Stuk 1, were the marksmen for Canadians. Fraser assisted in two goals, Sander and Redisky one each.

Wires received by Canadians after their win over Stampeders on Saturday night indicated Dr. and Mrs. Rose, W. L. Taylor, A. F. Short, Alex. Galbraith, Harry Clifford, and the Cosmopolitan hotel at Blairmore. A phone call from Frank Abousayff expressed felicitations orally.

CANADIANS GUESTS OF MR. AND MRS. CHARLES MCKINNON AT CALGARY REUNION

A happy reunion of old friends took place at Calgary on Saturday, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKinnon, of Maple Creek, Sask., and former Coleman residents, were hosts to Canadians at a supper after the Stampeders-Canadians hockey game. Visiting in Calgary, the McKinnons took this golden opportunity of watching the Canadians in action for the first time this winter, and enjoying the company of the players and management for a short time after the game. Several friends of the McKinnons were also present at the supper.

The players sincerely appreciate the kindness of their hosts, and take this opportunity of expressing their thanks.

No Change in Strike Situation at Blairmore

The strike of miners at West Canadian Collieries and Mohawk Bituminous mines shows no indication of a settlement at the time of writing. Robert Livett, president of District 18, U. M. W. A., has issued a statement outlining the reason for the strike, and states that arrangements will be made for issuing strike relief. The strike commenced on Jan. 16. It is reported that the fireboses have been laid off since it started.

The miners affected have been working on short time for a considerable period, and the cessation of work will cause some privation among the miners and their families, even though relief is granted from district funds. In the interests of all concerned, it is hoped that a compromise may be effected to enable the men to return to work.

Mr. Livett's statement, published in the Lethbridge Herald, is in part as follows:

"All the men are asking is that prices be paid at these mines as are being paid for similar work at the mines in the immediate neighborhood—Hillcrest, McGillivray, and the International Coal and Coke Company, which have been paying on a tonnage basis for 34 years. The companies' reply to our request was 47 cents per ton, whereas at the International and the McGillivray mines they pay 59 cents per ton. Whilst the International and McGillivray also pay for timbering extra and above this rate, the West Canadian proposal was 47 cents per ton including timbering. Therefore, it is obvious that the men could not accept such an offer. Whilst this is what is known as a pillar rate, the same advantages are claimed by the West Canadian Collieries in comparison on room tonnage rates. And I wish to state, emphatically, that the employees of these collieries are not violating any law nor any agreement, and are only standing for what is right and just in order that the competitive position of the mines engaged in the coal industry in the Crows' Nest Pass will have a relatively equal labor cost.

"In regard to the question of relief, the organization will take care of this situation as per its laws and policies, and committees will be set up for this purpose when the necessary time arrives."

Masonic Lodge Honors Departing Member

Arthur Fraser Leaves International
Co. to Take Position With Coal
Valley Coal Co., Near Edson.

Prior to opening an emergent meeting of Summit Lodge, A. F. & A. M., last Friday evening, a number of the members gathered at a dinner in the lodge room in honor of Mr. Arthur Fraser, a member of the lodge, who will leave this week to assume duties at Coal Valley, southwest of Edson.

Since 1924, when he was graduated from Alberta University, he has been engaged as mining engineer in a mining field at Pittsburg, nine years, then coming to the Crows' Nest Pass, for a time being with West Canadian Collieries Ltd. and during the past three years with International Coal & Coke Co. Ltd. During the war he was overseas with the 49th Battalion, C.E.F., enlisting at Edmonton.

Mr. George Kellogg, vice-president of the company, paid tribute to Mr. Fraser's ability, stating that if he found conditions not to his liking, the way was open to return. A presentation on behalf of the lodge was made by Harry Wilton-Clark, an old friend of the guest of honor, with whom he had worked in the Pittsburg region, and later in the Crows' Nest Pass. He was also at Alberta University at the same time as Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Fraser thanked the members for their courtesies, and stated he would remember with pleasure his stay here. His wife and three children will remain here for the present, till he had a chance to get his bearing in his new location.

Mrs. Phillips, mother of Mrs. Fraser, who has resided with them in Coleman, will go north with the family when they move.

At the dinner of Summit Lodge, a welcome was extended to Mr. Elias Jones, a recently initiated member.

THE UNITED CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING

The 32nd annual meeting was held on Monday evening with a slightly better than usual attendance. Reports were received from all organizations in the life of the congregation. These showed a year of faithful effort with good results. The Ladies' Aid have been in existence all through the life of the church. There is at least one of the original members still serving. The Women's Missionary Society has at least a quarter of a century of history and year by year does its work and reaches its objective. The young women's missionary organization is now known as the Evening Auxiliary and reported a very pleasant and fruitful year. They were able to help the other missionary groups of the church and gave much needed screen for use in the club room.

The Sunday school shows signs of strengthening, with a beginners' class of twenty. Special reference was made to the services of the choir and their leader, and to the organists. Financially, all obligations had been met and several small surpluses were reported. It was pointed out that the time was not far away that the younger portion of the congregation must take a larger share in the actual work of the church and give more generous support financially. Worship was led by the minister, and a very pleasant period followed, with refreshments served by the Ladies' Aid.

The regular schedule will be followed for next Sunday. A cordial invitation is extended to all who have no other church home.

The New Education

For fifty years educational philosophy has been groping its way to freedom from beneath a suffocating cloak of phrases, ideas and prejudices.

For fifty years leaders of educational thought have suspected more and more that our school methods, ideals and philosophy were revolving around the wrong centre. Hence the crashing and groaning (especially in recent years) of the educational machine.

Strange, is it not, that we have so long in naming and placing the true centre of our educational system? Strange—but true! Only now—in the past few years—has education decided finally, firmly, and definitely that, after all, the child—the student—is and shall be the centre of our educational universe.

Protest as we may, the fact remains that the child has never been given—in practice—his rightful place as the focus of all educational theory and practice. For a time the state held that place—still holds it in the educational world of the Hitlers and their followers.

A change in the centre means a change in method—a change in outlook—a change both in the final and immediate aims. And it is both unnecessary and disturbing.

But the change is here. Teachers and students have turned to the new road—the new method—the new aim. These are trying times in the classroom and in the teachers' forum. The parent, especially interested parent, is beginning to wonder—perhaps to doubt, and even to distrust.

Closer co-operation between school and home, between teacher and parent, between the school and the citizens in general, is the only way to clarify these doubts and fears. More than that: a closer co-operation is an absolute necessity to progress in the newly chosen path.

During education week we are especially asked to direct our thoughts to the school and its purpose. It is a week during which we are all invited to meet, to see, to hear and to discuss, particularly discuss the significance of the new era in education. Teachers more than ever today sense the need for this discussion. Education week in the time and the opportunity. We hope to meet you.

During the week beginning February 6, the teachers and students of the Coleman schools will be "At Home." But we do not propose to entertain you formally. We shall meet you with artificial "company manners." School work will proceed just as usual (or nearly so). The plant will continue in operation. You will just drop in to look around and pass the time of day with the teachers. Senior students will be free to act as ushers and answer your questions. Come in—any day—any time of day. We do wish to meet you.

Spanish Insurgents Slowly Closing In On Barcelona Defences

Hendaye, France.—The entire population of Barcelona was regulationed for defense of the Spanish government capital as 300,000 insurgents drew ever-narrowing circles almost within gunshells of the city.

The government's vaunted "mystery" line of defenses in the mountain bordering Barcelona's province apparently had collapsed. Three of its key positions were in insurgent hands.

The government, meeting in almost continuous session to map defenses of Barcelona itself, ordered every able-bodied male up to 55 years old, and women between the ages of 14 and 40 to dig trenches.

The nearest insurgent columns were moving up the Mediterranean coast behind a protective fan of tanks and armored cars only 18 miles from Barcelona's gates.

From the air, massed squadrons of insurgents General Franco's bombers circled over the government capital in unceasing relays, dropping tons of explosives.

(The insurgent high command at Burgos said its Galician offensive had occupied 500 government towns, conquered more than 15,000 square miles since Dec. 23.)

Insurgents said Iquique, 30 miles west of Barcelona, was captured. Twice within three days it had changed hands while veteran government troops under General Enrique Lister fought desperately to save it.

Between Iquique and Manresa, about 14 miles northeast, insurgents said they had crossed the Hlobregat river, cutting a road which not only linked Barcelona to the northern sectors of the front but which also was one of the two main highways to the French frontier.

Franco's armies were spread over Catalonia like a giant hand relentlessly clutching into a fist around Barcelona. Observers believed closing of the fist would mean collapse of government resistance and an end of the civil war which in two and one-half years has taken more than 1,000,000 lives.

Refugees fleeing from France government Spain brought increasingly numerous reports which indicated growing panic in Catalonia.

Some said government officials already had fled Barcelona by plane, carrying secret government archives to Madrid and Valencia.

According to other reports, the Barcelona government has asked France to authorize an exodus of 40,000 refugees from Catalonia if it should become necessary.

The British steamer African Mariner, which arrived at Barcelona four days ago with a cargo of wheat and frozen meat, was sunk by air raiders.

Britain May Send Expeditionary Force In Event Of War

London.—The prospect of Great Britain being obliged to create and train a large expeditionary force to fight on the continent in the event of another European war is visualized by Captain Liddell Hart, one of the leading military critics in the United Kingdom.

Capt. Hart, for years an opponent of this theory, told the national education conference he had been compelled to change his opinions following collapse of collective security last September. It is all too obvious now, he said, against whom Britain has to defend herself. Europe's military situation revolved about the two axis of strategy and tactics.

On the tactical axis depends the question of what the offensive could do. The Ethiopian war and to a

Plea For Refugees

Coldwell Deplors Spread Of Anti-Semitic Propaganda

Ottawa.—A plea for the admission of a reasonable number of persecuted European refugees to Canada and a protest against the dissemination of Nazi-inspired anti-Semitic propaganda in this country were voiced in the House of Commons by M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar), speaking in the debate on the speech from the throne.

Many people talked about stopping Communist propaganda, he said, but no one gave attention to Nazi propaganda which was spreading seeds of discord among Canadians. Canada went on exporting nickel and chromium to Germany on most-favored nation terms while the victims of Nazi terror were denied admission to this country.

"To-day," he said, "the victims of Fascism and Nazi terror cry aloud to all civilized people for consideration and for aid, and I am wondering as to that cry. Pro-Nazi papers printed in Canada and pro-Nazi literature printed in Germany and widely circulated in Canada are trying to poison us with anti-Semitic propaganda."

Canada could not open its doors to all who sought admission in the present state of unemployment and agricultural depression.

"We are urging," he said, "that the prime minister take the house into his confidence and say whether this country will receive—not a large influx, ungratified, of the victims, because there are 1,500,000 of them—but that we are in this country, in common with other democratic peoples, will take our fair quota of those who are suffering from terror in central Europe."

Build Bombing Planes

Work On Bombers For British Air Force To Start In Canada Soon

Montreal.—Work on bombing planes for the British Air Force will start in Canada within a few weeks and continue through this year and next, Lewis C. Ord said on his arrival from England.

The air expert, who will take over as general manager of Canadian Associated Aircraft Limited, did not name the type of ship to be built here, but said the machine has been flown in England for about a year.

An English factory employing 11,000 men would begin production shortly before Canadian output started, he said.

Saying air regulations prevented him from naming the type to be built in Canada, he added, "I can tell you, they are magnificent ships. You remember the Vickers' record flight from Egypt to Australia recently? Well, I think these planes could do an even better job."

The new ships in the British air force would be flown across the Atlantic when completed, he said.

Would Tax Wheat

Resolution Urging Tax On Wheat Processed For Home Consumption

Calgary.—A tax on wheat processed for home consumption to offset possible loss due to the pegged price of wheat was urged in a resolution passed by the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta.

Dealing with several resolutions, the convention also re-elected Robert G. McLean, Excel, president, and Norman F. Priestley, of Calgary, vice-president for their ninth consecutive term.

Dealing mullers made undue profits, the resolution urged the tax on wheat processed for home consumption also urged a pegged price for bread for protection of consumers.

The pegged wheat price is established through the 80-cent price of the Canadian wheat board for No. 1 northern wheat at Fort William.

The convention reaffirmed its stand declaring it was necessary to have a compulsory grain board with adequate producer representation to sell all the Canadian grain marketed through commercial channels. It rejected a compulsory grain board which was not recommended by the Turg-

SASKATCHEWAN'S LEGISLATURE OPENS

The first session of the ninth Saskatchewan Legislature convened on January 19th. Many important matters will be discussed in the House, particularly the recent statement from London by the International Wheat Board to the effect that Canada must reduce her wheat acreage. Above is a general view of the stately Parliament Buildings at Regina. Inset, oval, is His Honour A. P. McNah, Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan, and left, top and bottom: Premier Patterson and G. H. Williams, leader of the C.C.F. Opposition.

New Reich Move Is Seen As Eclipse Of German Moderates

London.—The abrupt dismissal of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, one of Germany's leading financiers, inspired wide belief in London that the move foreshadowed a new German "surprise" for Europe.

Financial and political observers believe that the dismissal marked the end of the so-called German "moderate" party and expressed the fear that the extremist party which now completely dominates the Reich will plunge the Germans and Europe into new perils.

Nazi authorities informed George S. Rublee, American director of the inter-governmental refugee committee, that his negotiations in Berlin for emigration of 500,000 German Jews were "discontinued." Astonished, Rublee and his associates planned to remain until they had confirmed this news.

To Visit West

Governor-General And Lady Tweedsmuir Will Leave Early In March

Ottawa.—Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir will leave early in March for a month-long trip in Western Canada while Rideau Hall is made ready for the King and Queen who arrive here May 17. Their itinerary has not yet been planned.

New furnishings will be added to Their Excellencies' official residence which will be the home of the royal visitors while they are in Ottawa. Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir remain at Rideau Hall during the four-day royal visit.

Alterations in furnishings also will be made at the Citadel, summer residence of the governor-general. In Quebec, which will be Their Majesties' headquarters there.

More flexibility in regulations in the Dominion farm loan administration were proposed along with a request for lowering interest rates so as to make the farm loan board an active factor in debt adjustment. Opposition to an increase over the five per cent interest rate in settlement of debts under the F.C.A.A. was registered.

Farm Debt Problem

U.F.A. Asks For Survey With View Of Settling Question

Calgary.—A survey of farm debts and enactment of legislation hacked by the powers of both the Dominion and province with a view to settlement of debt questions were proposed in resolutions adopted at the concluding session of the United Farmers of Alberta annual convention here.

The resolution declared neither the federal nor provincial governments had complete constitutional power to deal with the whole problem of debt adjustment and interest rates, and proposed the one act incorporating powers of the Provincial Debt Adjustment Act and the Federal Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act.

Reported Franco May Fortify Border Of Spain And France

Farmers Back Chamberlain

Recent Attack On Prime Minister By Sussex Delegate

London.—It was reported that while the prime minister had ordered the immediate fortification of the Spanish side of the Pyrenees mountains on the Franco-Spanish border, under the personal direction of Italian and German technicians.

Unconfirmed advised said that the prime minister was given at the suggestion of Premier Musolini, who is said to be in London, to submit to leftist demands and throw open the frontier for arms shipment to loyalists in Catalonia.

French capital observers expressed the belief that the move might foreshadow construction of another German-Italian bulwark, similar to the Nazi Siegfried line that now faces France's Maginot line on the Franco-German frontier.

They point out that if Germans are given a free hand by General Franco to construct fortifications on the Spanish frontier, France will be completely surrounded on all sides except the English channel and the Swiss border, by a ring of deadly and completely modernized walls."

A British Press correspondent in despatch sent directly from Barcelona, reported that the loyalists are preparing to transfer the seat of the Spanish government to Valencia by sea.

The manoeuvre would mean running southward along the east coast through an insurgent naval blockade in the Mediterranean, but it was regarded as a "necessary risk" if Barcelona appears doomed to fall.

Military reports from Hendaye state that a surprise attack by insurgents at night raiders have driven a deep wedge into government lines and carried the insurgents to within three miles of the town of Calaf at the northern end of Barcelona's outermost ring of fortifications.

Has No Information

Government Can Give No News About Jewish Refugee Fund

Ottawa.—The Dominion government was without information on the move of the Czech-Slovakian national bank reported in a Prague despatch in setting up a fund of approximately $2,335,000 to endow 5,000 Jewish refugees to come to Canada.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of resources, said with jurisdiction immigration falls, said the despatch from Prague was the first word he had had of any such project and declined comment.

Sooner or later life demonstrates its ups and downs to each of us, to some more accentuated than others.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

AT THE time of writing little has been heard of nominations for the council and school board. At present there is little of a controversial nature as to policies to be pursued. The only flare-up of any consequence during the year was the revision of assessment for the school district, but little has been heard since, and as far as can be judged ratepayers have accepted the revision without further grumbling.

IN REGARD to nominations, some are desirous of seeing at least two business men accept nomination for the school board. Without speaking disparagingly of the services rendered by the present trustees, who have gone through at times a troublous period of office, it would undoubtedly give wider representation if this plan were followed.

THE RESPONSIBILITIES of Coleman's school trustees entail more work than do those of the council, having to deal with a staff of almost 20 teachers and over 600 pupils, apart from the financial administration. Their duties are such that it is not wise to have too frequent changes in the personnel of the board, for it takes a new trustee some time to become familiar with his duties. Encroachments on local authority by the Department of Education have also to be guarded against, requiring men on the board who will not be subjugated to the whims of those who would take from trustees local authority.

THE per capita cost per pupil has increased during the past year, but that was to be expected, owing to the additional money required to meet capital expenditure on the high school.

IT IS our belief that Coleman schools compare most favorably with those in centres of similar size, and in order to maintain a high standard, it is not only essential that there should be good teachers, but that trustees must be ever vigilant to maintain the standard. For that reason care should be taken in nominating men who fully realize the responsibility that is entailed to both the teaching staff and the ratepayers. Last minute nominations for either the office of school trustee or councillor usually are not productive of the type of candidate that is most desirable.

NO BUSINESS concern would appoint a man to a job without demanding some knowledge of his qualifications. The same rule should apply in nominating candidates for the conduct of the ratepayers' business.

AN AVALANCHE of free publicity requests and propaganda recently received from various sources, local or otherwise, quickly found its way to the w.p.b. Those who prepare this material doubtless receive pay for it; it costs money to address and mail it, then most of it comes to an inglorious end, whereas if business methods were followed and paid space arranged for, the newspaper would receive some revenue and the free publicity material would not be quite so readily chucked into the discard. Some people haven't any sense of decency when it comes to making such requests; they almost demand it. Needless to remark, they are treated accordingly. The amusing part of it is that almost everyone of these free publicity seekers thinks he has a message which the world is waiting to hear. We get them all, from freeing the slaves to promoting your soul to everlasting glory. However, our material wants, which if satisfied will help to make us spiritually happy, must be taken into account, for you can't pay the help by publishing free dope.

ELMER E. ROPER, of The People's Weekly, Edmonton, said a whole lot in remarking that as far as he had observed, spiritual happiness depended in the first place on material wants being supplied. How can a starving man or a man who has to continually bathe for an existence to feed his children, be spiritually happy? It keeps him scratching so hard that he has little time to even think of happiness. Work and food are the first requisites to any kind of happiness, thin though the happiness may be. It may be all very well to tell the down-and-outer to seek first the Kingdom or God; but could you do it, brother, and not feel that the first thing to do would be to grubstake the poor unfortunate? Ministers here could tell many incidents of transients coming for food and clothing, which are supplied as far as circumstances permit. Men in that condition know that self-preservation is the first law of nature and a good meal helps to keep them alive.

JUDGING from lack of attendance at the public meeting on Wednesday last to acquaint people with the workings of Social Credit banks, otherwise named "Treasury Branches," it does not appear likely that one will be established here. Enquiry fails to reveal any merchant who has signed the Memorandum of Agreement, or if he has he is not making it known. Wage earners here turn over their money to pay their bills so quickly that passing it through a bank would make a lot of unnecessary work. But of course, the government pays for the non-profitable work entailed, and we all pay the shot in taxes - and more taxes.

NEW GOVERNMENT
PUBLICITY DIRECTOR

DAN E.C. CAMPBELL

In 1935 the Aberhart government "canned" Publicity Commissioner Col. G. Groff. Mr. Manning told a gathering that the province would receive so much publicity through Social Credit they wouldn't need a publicity office. So Col. went east to Nova Scotia, where his ability and good relations between press and government are recognized, or Mr. Aberhart, has undergone a change of heart. Dan E. C. Campbell, former editor of Texaco News Flashes, has been appointed publicity director. A circular letter over the signature of "Ernest Manning, acting premier," referring to the appointment of the director and also Mackay & Savary as advertising agency for the government, states:

"In making these appointments, the government would like to make it clear to all news media and to the public generally that the new publicity bureau has been set up purely as an office for assisting in getting into the hands of the public accurate and authentic information."

News editors are left wondering if the government will pay for the space to publish the "accurate information."

Mr. Campbell and Mackay & Savary will be on the payroll. Why not the newspapers, if they are asked for space?

Visitors From Ontario

During the Christmas season Mr. W. Heibin had a visit from his daughter, Mrs. Reg. Jarman, whom he had not seen since leaving Ontario 30 years ago. Mr. Jarman and two of their children came with Mrs. Jarman. He is first mate on the S. S. "Keewatin," of the C.P.R. Great Lakes fleet. They enjoyed their ten days stay here, and it was their first trip to Western Canada. They hope to again visit here in the not distant future. Their home is at Victoria Harbour, on the Georgian Bay, Ont.

Conservative Organizing

A convention of the National Conservative Party will be held in Calgary on Saturday, February 25. It has been proposed that this convention be preceded by a dinner to be held simultaneously in every trading centre of the province at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, February 18.

To the high school student, or any other person, who sends in the most appropriate caption for this cartoon, a year's subscription will be given. Now that ratepayers are discussing municipal elections, it should arouse interest. Cut by courtesy Financial Post.

TOWN of COLEMAN FINANCIAL STATEMENT

FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31st, 1938

Calgary, Alberta,
5th January, 1939.

The Mayor and Councillors,

The Town of Coleman, Alberta.

Gentlemen:

In accordance with your instructions and the requirements of the Town and Village Act of Alberta, I have audited the accounts and records of the Town of Coleman for the year ended 31st December, 1938, and in addition to completing the Report Form required by the Alberta Department of Municipal Affairs, I have also prepared the attached Cash Statement, Revenue Account and Balance Sheet for your information from the records of the Town.

The Cash Statement deals only with actual Cash Received and Paid Out by the Town during the calendar year regardless of whether the actual items were connected with the business year; the Revenue Statement shows only the Earnings and Expenses applicable to the calendar year 1938 regardless of whether the items were actually settled within the fiscal period. This Statement shows that after making the usual allowances for Depreciation of the various Physical Assets of the Town, the 1938 business recorded small surplus of $215.45. You will note that in addition to the ordinary operating expenses there was also the sum of $4,964.75 spent for Capital Account in additional Street Paving and Sidewalks; and also the sum of $521.75 spent for Capital Account in connection with the new Open Air Rink. Both these items are included in the Assets on the attached Balance Sheet.

The Town actually collected in Cash for Town Taxes the sum of $15,861.32, besides also allowing Cash Discounts totalling $1,196.77 on payment of Current Tax, making the actual Tax Collection for Town purposes $17,058.09, compared to the current levy of $15,866.38. This has resulted in Town Tax Arrears being again reduced and at 31st December, 1938, these Arrears were only $7,741.80, or less than half of one year's current levy, which is a very satisfactory condition. Similarly the collections of Provincial Tax amounted to $828.10, compared to the current levy of $750.00, and Arrears at 31st December, 1938, were reduced to only $222.17, approximately one-third of the current levy. It can be safely said that there are few other Municipal Authorities in Alberta in such a healthy tax condition. There are 664 parcels of property listed on the Town Assessment Roll and of these only 27 are exempt from taxation, including the Churches, Schools, Town Hall, etc., while outside the current operating expense items the Town has no liabilities except a small loan, which amounts to only half of the Town's Investment in the Gold Bonds of the Coleman Light and Water Company Limited. The Physical Assets of the Town are offset by Depreciation Reserve accounts which now amount to some 70% of the cost value of the Assets concerned. Although the Town has a large yearly outlay for Street Lights and Fire Hydrant Water Service, the domestic user of electricity in Coleman enjoys the lowest rates of any place in Alberta outside the larger Cities of the Province.

Unfortunately Relief Expense has again increased during the past year, exceeding $3,000.00 again for the first time since 1935, and the actual Cash on Hand at 31st December, 1938, was only $1,339.18, compared to $2,060.19 the previous year, and $2,944.53 at 31st December, 1936.

I beg to report that I visited the Town Office on seven occasions in the year and each time I found the work up to date, the records in balance and the cash properly accounted for and deposited in the Bank.

Subject to the foregoing, I certify that, in my opinion, the attached Balance Sheet is properly drawn up to disclose a true and correct view of the affairs of the Town of Coleman as at 31st December, 1938, according to the best of my information, the explanations given to me, and as shown by the books of the Town of Coleman, Alberta.

E. D. BATTRUM,

Public Accountant.

By Anne Adams

A4853

Look, there's choice of two flattering necklines in the pretty frock. And how pleasing the "girly" section and flared skirts are! As for the question whether matching, contrasting, long or short-sleeved, it's the crowning touch. Useful with other frocks, too!

Pattern 4853 is available in girls' and junior sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 10, entire ensemble, takes 2 yards 39 inch fabric for dress and 5/4 yards 54 inch fabric for bolero; short sleeve bolero 5/4 yard 39 inch fabric.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Something Quite New

Foothall Player Crowned Queen Of Michigan University Ice Carnival

Jack Brennan, a lantern-jawed Varsity football player and wrestler, was crowned "Queen of the University of Michigan Ice Carnival." The new queen is six feet tall, weighs more than 200 pounds and plays a tough game as guard. Relations between the sexes long have been strained at the university in Ann Arbor, and Brennan claimed many men voted for him because he authored a cutting remark two years ago: "Four out of five women are beautiful, and the fifth comes to Michigan."

Found Patrons Honest

It's an honest world, after all, a suburban theatre manager near Philadelphia had decided. He advertised that admission for an evening show would be payable on the way out only by those who thought it was worth the money. Less than a dozen failed to pay, he said.

Coral, which looks like a plant, but which really belongs to the family of animals known as polyps, was believed to be an insect for centuries.

PETER DECLARES HIS LOVE

Golden text: If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments. John 14:15. Lesson: John 21:11-19. Devotional reading: Matthew 10: 34-42.

Explanations and Comments

Peter Declares His Love, John 21: 15-19. Jesus turned to Peter and said, "Simon, son of Joan, I know that more than these other disciples love me?" This recalls Peter's boast recorded in Mt. 26:33, "If all shall be offended in thee, I will never be offended." Peter was no longer self-assertive, and he humbly replied, "Yea Lord; thou knowest that I love thee." "Feed my lambs," bade Jesus, thus telling the heartbroken disciples that he was trusted, that he would have a chance to redeem himself. Twice more Jesus asked the same question, and the third time Peter was grieved. "He was grieved because by the threefold denial of himself he had minded that the threefold denial of which he had been guilty afforded ground for calling his love question. It was grief, however, not irritation, anger, nor shame. There is no pride, passion, nor vanity in this man's soul but only holy, meek contrition, a penitent, chastened spirit. The man who can so take allusions to his sins is not only fit to end the sheep, but even to nurse the lambs. He will be tender towards offenders, not with the spurious charity which cannot afford to condemn sin strongly, but with the generous charity of one who has himself received mercy for sins since he repented" (A. B. Bruce).

Upon each block along the denial Peter turned the white light of a smile. "Tend my sheep, feed my sheep," said Jesus, and long afterwards Peter wrote: "Tend the flock of God which is among you . . . and when the chief Shepherd shall be manifested ye shall receive the crown of glory that fadeth not away," I. Peter 5:2-4.

Jesus solemnly added, "When thou wast young, thou girdest thyself (for work) and walkest whither thou wouldest; but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not."

Went it not for the next verse this might be taken as referring merely to the dependence that comes with increasing age, but John adds, "This he spake signifying by the manner of death he should glorify God." During the early years of persecution in the Church the death of martyrs was commonly spoken of as a glorifying of God. According to tradition Peter was crucified and, at his own request, with his head downward, counting not himself worthy to be crucified as was his Lord.

"Follow me," cried Jesus, and he knew that Peter would follow him even to death.

City vs. Country

Many of Our Leading Men Started Their Career On A Farm

A Boston psychiatrist at least hits the edge of the target when he says that city life fosters "a faculty for quick conclusions, agility of mind, commercial enterprise and tolerance." He also states that it promotes a tendency to neurosis and hectic instability.

It is quite true that the hustle and bustle of urban life and the competition one encounters in the course of business activity do put a strain on the nervous system and keep one on his toes.

But when this psychiatrist contends that rural areas "foster stupidity," he is wide of the mark. Many of the urban dwellers who have climbed the ladder of success were born and raised in the country. Things may be different across the line, but in this country one could cite a long list of individuals who gained eminence in various walks of life, despite the "handicap" of having been brought up in rural areas.

The cities have no monopoly on producing capable, tolerant citizens. —Kitchener Daily Record.

Battleship Named

New Battleship To Be Known As The Duke of York

It has been decided that the name Duke of York is to be given to the battleship of the new construction program which is being built by John Brown and Co., Limited, Clydebank.

As British warship's name, the Duke of York is not so well known as that of York, which has been borne by several ships and is at present the name of a cruiser serving as flagship on the Americas and West Indies Station. There appears to have been only one H.M.S. Duke of York, built in 1763, which had no war service of any consequence. A small armed vessel known as Duke York figured in the operations against the French off Brest in 1796. London Times.

Discovered By Chance

For years plant breeders had tried to develop a fragrant lily whose anthers did not shed pollen on the petals, thus discoloring them. By chance it was discovered that bulbs subjected to X-rays produced just such a plant. Now this lily is registered in the U.S. Patent Office.

The curvature of the earth amounts to seven inches per mile.

Used at first sneeze, this specialized medication for the nose and upper throat—helps prevent many colds.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

There is a striking similarity between the accounts of the discovery of vaccination, the circulation of the blood and of anaesthesia. All three were at first received with incredulity, a brief period of awe and then rapid acceptance. The respective discoverers, Jenner, Harvey and Morton suffered financially and the two latter experienced much personal distress. In their own day none had the credit they deserved. The United States and Great Britain together initiated the use of anaesthesia, but the recent advances in this field are divided between Canada, the United States and Germany.

The discovery and use of anaesthesia took place with almost explosive rapidity. In 1844 Wells produced surgical anaesthesia with nitrous oxide; in 1846 Morton, a dentist of Boston, did the same with ether, and in 1847, Sir James Y. Simpson of Edinburgh introduced chloroform. By the end of September 1847, chloroform and ether were in widespread use and both nitrous oxide and ethyl chloride were known to be possible anaesthetics. Throughout the year 1847 the Lancet (London) maintained a special column describing "operations without pain."

The afore-mentioned names are generally credited with the discovery of one of the greatest boons to humanity.

Crawford W. Long, a rural doctor in Georgia who in 1842, had used ether in operation, had bad luck. He failed to publish his results until 1852 and thus missed the opportunity of fame.

Many advances have been made in anaesthesia since their initial discovery, but it is generally agreed that ether, nitrous oxide and chloroform are together more important than all the other known agents. An anaesthetist could manage better if confined to these agents than he could if deprived of these three and allowed his choice of all others.

Up to 1923, there was extraordinarily little change in the drugs used to drown the pain of operation. Since that date cyclopropane and ethylene have been introduced, intravenous anaesthesia with sodium ephipan has gained great popularity and a wide variety of measures to induce unconsciousness has been investigated. Cyclopropane may be called a Canadian invention. Within the last 50 years or so, local anaesthesia has made great strides and the use of spinal anaesthesia has become an established practice.

A Matter Of Choice

Good Taste Only Dress Regulation For Royal Visit

"Good taste" is the only "dress regulation" that will be issued for those civic and other dignitaries who will meet the King and Queen in their tour of Canada. It is officially stated at Ottawa there will be no attempt to force into morning clothes those who are at home only in lounge dress. At formal evening functions, which will be numerous, formal evening attire will be designated but, even there, it will not be compulsory.

"Dad, what's dignity?" "Dignity, my boy, is what you think you possess until the boss says, 'What is the meaning of this?'"

"Got fire fighting equipment?"

"Plenty."

"Hoos and tankage?"

"Yeh—and dynamite. Been bringing up a lot of Indians from across Takla lake—they know their business. Ought to; they set enough fires down in that region so a cold can get paid for putting them out."

They were at quite an altitude, but still in fog.

"This smoke goes up plenty high," Hammond said. Even as he mentioned it, he became aware that the air had cleared, that he was breathing deeply for the first time that day. The ranger leaned closer.

"No smoke; clouds," he shouted. "The visibility's hell. Getting colder—freezing up probably."

"Hope so."

The forester grimaced. No one hoped that more than he. "Know any place we could get in up there to start cutting off this block?" If we can hack-freeze down below and cut 'er off here, it'll save a half billion feet of timber." That was the job now, to save timber. But in saving it, Hammond knew, lives must be risked, perhaps lives given. He pointed toward Whoopie.

"We can work through the inlet."

CHEST COLDS

Here's Quick Relief from Their DISTRESS

Rub soother, warm Musterole well into your chest and throat.

Musterole IS NOT JUST A salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing old-fashioned remedies of oil of mustard and other medicinal ingredients, in a clean white ointment.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustards. Musterole is a salve that stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in quickly relieving local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by the doctors to save nurses. Made in Canada, in three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. All druggists, 40¢ each.

MUSTEROLE
BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PLASTER

he said. "The fire missed that. The smoke raised for a few minutes, and I got a look. It's clear."

Thus the grueling task began, air planes which banked and skinned the surface of the lake, which took desperate chances, which dropped recklessly downward through the smoke pall to discharge their cargo, then took off as desperately with no clear knowledge of shore or tree-top line. Wading through the sloshing Indians sloped off the ponds, standing waiting until other chance-taking pilots, Timmy Moon among them, should bring up the long lines of small-holed, tightly-woven hoses, the collapsible tanks and portable pumps which would allow water to be sent thousands of feet into the forest. Boxes of dynamite were unloaded. Sacks were carried out by the bale.

Hour after hour, into the deep night and again to daylight, the dogged task continued with short respites for rest as the shifts changed. Dynamite boomed and trees crashed to earth. Long, ragged lines of men, gasping for clean air, wet sacks monotonously, attacked the smoldering earth.

The air grew hotter, more horrible. But suddenly Hammond paused in his commands and looked up, blinking. He put out his hand, swiftly retrieving it, close to his eyes.

"Snow!" he shouted. "It's started to snow. Keep going! We've got help from upstairs!"

An outcry from the gang joined his call. Snow! Now the flakes were thicker and the wind was freshening, with the cold wet chill of approaching freeze-up. A thrill went through Hammond, as quickly, however, to change to apprehension.

There was a possibility of fatality in all this. If gange should quit, believing a blizzard imminent, and if it should prove only a flurry, then the grueling labors of 48 hours would be lost. Jack started on a circuit of his workers.

The hose gang were still at it, the manpower pumps going faithfully, pulling the water by easy stages from the lake into canvas collapsible tanks, there to be pumped out again to more tanks and finally to the reaches of the fire. Here a sack crew worked diligently, there a gang of axmen, their faces muffled in wet cloths, walked amid smoldering embers, that they might feel the temperature, trying to identify the moment of tree-top explosions. But at last he sighted a group of idle men at the bank of the Big Moose.

But at last he sighted a group of idle men at the bank of the Big Moose.

The forest once had run to the river's edge here; now it was scarred and blackened. Logs still smoked, the baked earth steamed with the thickening of the snowfall. Certainly here was no place to relax labor.

"What's wrong with you?" Jack shouted. "This fire isn't over!"

A Takla Indian turned and with a short arm gesture motioned them closer. Then a white man called: "Better come down here."

Hammond obeyed, staring at what he saw. On the ground was the charred body of a man, his clothing burned away.

"Dead?" Hammond asked. There was a queer tremble of his voice.

"That's the hell of it," a firefighter answered. "The poor devil's still living."

Hammond lay face downward, distorted mouth open. Hammond went to his knees and gently turned the man on his back.

"It thought so," he said jerkily. It was Bruce Kenning.

Burned, horribly so, the man still was recognizable. Hammond reached for his gloves and dusted the dirt out of the man's eyes; they were uninjured. The eyes moved, in a manner which hurt Jack to watch. There was no sound, not even an action of the lips. They were too swollen, too cracked; long fissures in the hugely enlarged flesh gave forth exhalations of serum; the enlarged tongue, pressed tightly motionless against seared palate, told his story.

"Some of you fellows better strip off your coats and cut some poles," he commanded. "Make a stretcher and take him out to the lake. I'll get him back to camp in the plane."

High in the air, Hammond leaned over the man, relenting in his hate. It seemed cruel that Kenning must cling to life. Then he even got the alienation of being able to groan; he made no sound save a throaty sort of gurgling. Only his eyes, fervent, terribly expressive, told of his suffering.

The airplane dropped down through the spongy sky to a comparatively gentle landing. Hammond opened the cabin door and leaned out over the spray of the pontoons, as the plane taxied to shore.

The life rafts were beached, empty. Men and a few women were lugging possessions out of the shallows, and moving with them through the driving snow, which steadily became heavier, toward the blackened expanse that once had been Sapphire.

Already a few tents were rising. Life had begun anew.

A woman called out to Hammond. "Hey! What's the trouble?"

It was around the World Annie, in char-smudged shirt and breeches. Her boots were muddy.

"Got a burn man in the cabin," he answered.

"Thought so. No use stopping here. Turn around to the inlet. You're using my place."

Jack started.

"Not I've got a burn man."

"Ain't you plenty up there like him?" yelled Annie. "What's eatin' on you? Who's eatin' on you?"

"Bruce Kenning. He's in bad shape."

Annie turned, and with a hooked arm, halted a passing miner.

"Go tell that Joyce girl they've found her lover," she commanded. "She's been runnin' around this camp half nuts."

Hammond, splattered with the drive of the blizzard, climbed back into the cabin.

"Over to the inlet!" he commanded the pilot.

Waiting men helped Jack out with his stiff passenger and bore him to the buildings of Whoopie. Annie reached her place as the slowly moving men ascended the steps. Hammond saw that her usual garish appearance was altered.

Make a Stretcher and Take Him Out to the Lake."

The enamel, the mascara, the rouge, were gone; their departure enhanced rather than detracted from her appearance. No longer was she a hard-featured gambling queen, only an old woman, somehow kindly, and shaken by the suffering which had invaded her rendering.

"God, he's in the hell of a shape!" she said, as she glanced over the injured man. "Be damned easy with him, boys."

They went on. Hammond walked before the stretcher bearers. At the door, he glanced up, with an exclamation of happiness. Jeannie Towns stood before him. She came quickly forward, her hands caught his arms. There was a moment of silence, almost communion. Then:

"You'd better take him into the big room."

Five minutes later, Jack stood at the door of that big room, a queer look his irregular features. Jeannie had been placed on a rough cot, and a quietly efficient woman of the Frontier Nursing Association, one of a dozen flown in within the last 24 hours, was directing the efforts of the women as they began the long task of cleansing and oiling and bandaging.

A door slammed. Hammond turned. For an instant he looked into the eyes of Kay Joyce.

"There he is," the man said quietly.

Ran Out Of Funds

After putting in eight years of labor on a sooty "Italian castle" at Trail, B.C., Giovanni Vianimai has decided to live in a small house nearby. Before he gave up his practice, Vianimai had created a massive landmark 55 feet high. Because the builder ran out of funds, the structure still lacks windows and a roof.

High in the air, Hammond leaned over the man, relenting in his hate. It seemed cruel that Kenning must cling to life. Then he even got the alienation of being able to groan; he made no sound save a throaty sort of gurgling. Only his eyes, fervent, terribly expressive, told of his suffering.

Find New Land

Lincoln Ellsworth Claimed Antarctic Territory for United States

Lincoln Ellsworth, leader of a fourth Antarctic expedition, said in a dispatch to New York from the motor ship Wyandot Earl to the North American News Alliance that the British Empire had claimed an area of 150,000 square miles of country never seen before by human eye has been added to the known area of the world's surface."

Ellsworth said he had claimed the area for the United States.

He told how he had flown south from the fringe of the Antarctic to a point from where he could see to Lat. 74°30' S., from his position on Long. 79° E. and I could see at least 150 miles on each side of the plane."

He said that "although snow-covered the area I saw in my flight of discovery might in some years hence become snow-free and disclose rich mineral deposits for, on the coast, exposed surfaces show much evidence of mineralization."

Two Canadians are aviators for the Ellsworth expedition. They are J. H. Lymburner and T. R. Trevice.

The Real Moral Force

Church Is Only Hope For Moral Freedom Students Einstein

Christian Century, Jan. 11, 1939, says: Albert Einstein, exponent of the theory of relativity, looking first to the universities, then to the press and, finally, to individual writers of Germany to defend freedom in modern life, now finds his ability to drive his cause safely.

It has taken us a long time to learn this lesson but it is soaking in slowly and when we get it digested we may be able to go on from there and realize that the same sort of truth applies to all of our activities in the modern world.—Calgary Alberian.

Driving A Motor Car Is A Business That Needs Attention

The man who is driving an automobile has a ton and a half of steel rolling along the highway. He may have the best intentions in the world, but if for any reason at all it gets out of his control, somebody is going to get hurt.

He may be guilty of nothing more than dozing for five seconds but the effect can be as bad as if he were a homicidal maniac with a meat axe. And the only rule that can be laid down is that he has no business getting behind the wheel if anything is going to interfere with his ability to drive his car safely.

Producing Figures As Proof

Canada, Nat. Australia, Leads Empire in Passenger Travel By Air

Figures obtained at the Trans-Canada Air Lines office in Montreal refute the claim made by Australia that the Commonwealth leads the Empire in passenger travel by air.

Asked for comment on the statement, T.C.A. executives referred to the latest figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In 1936 paying passengers on Canadian airlines totalled 98,451. In 1937 the number had grown to 112,472. Australia claims the record for 88,486 passengers on the year ending July 1, 1938. With the inauguration of regular passenger service by T.C.A. this year between Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Lethbridge and Vancouver, the Canadian air travel figures will go up still higher.

Has Not Been Changed

Ontario Schools Using Prayer

Authorized 83 Years Ago

Evidence that the form of prayer authorized for Ontario's public and secondary schools has not changed in 83 years was submitted by Board of Education officials at London, Ontario, on an old school register.

The register, found in the board's vault, was dated 1863, and contained the name of "Mr. Mulligan" trustee for School Section No. 18, Fallowfield. It contained a form of prayer dated 1854 and identical to that now in use. A complete transcript, radically different to that inaugurated in Ontario schools in recent years, was also in the register.

No Longer Ruler

The mighty eagle no longer rules the air above the Colorado Rockies. One monarch of the crags went out to battle three fearsome-looking invaders and crashed to death against the wing of an army attack plane near Pueblo, Colo. The three planes were doing about 275 miles an hour when the eagle tackled one piloted by C. E. Putnam.

Moral Is Obvious

Five of seven children belonging to a Glace Bay, C.B., family were taken ill with a severe type of diphtheria.

The other two were unaffected. Why? Because they were recently the only members of the family to attend a toxoid clinic. The moral of this ought to be obvious to parents in general.

According to careful observers, four-fifths of the conversation among the lower classes in China deals with the subject of food.

Stoicism Of Chinese

Has Been Developed Through Facing Danger For Centuries

As a result of recent floods in the Yellow River valley, 3,000,000 Chinese farmers and laborers are to be homeless while 8,000,000 others are threatened with disaster.

The Yangtze, Yellow and other Chinese rivers have been overflowing their banks and spreading destruction over large areas for 5,000 years at least.

A single flood has often taken millions of lives.

The Chinese have developed, as a result of 50 centuries of that sort of thing, a stoicism in the face of danger, destitution, and death which must have stood them in good stead in the war Japan has been waging on them for the last year and a half.

The Chinese like life and comfort, as much as anyone does, but they have lived for so long under the shadow of death by flood, famine and disease that Japanese bombs and bayonets can hardly have for them the same terror that they would have for a people that had not been equally hardened by natural calamities.

Advice of Scientists

Give Larynx Rest By Talking Only When Necessary

Keep your mouth shut, except when talking, if necessary, if you want to avoid harm to your voice box.

So advised two physicians, Drs. Chorvall Jackson and C. L. Jackson, of Philadelphia, in the magazine of Hygiene. They pointed out that constant chatter gives the larynx no rest. They warned, too, that shouting, cheering, forceful singing and loud speaking often cause little hemorrhages in the vocal cords.

These may develop into various kinds of tumors.

London's Last Farmer

London's "last farmer," Ralph Hall Caine, brother of the late Sir Hall Caine, novelist, died recently at his home, Ken Wood Farm in Hampstead. The farm is believed to be the only one in London left.

For some years Mr. Clay has been priest-in-charge of Soothill, in the parish of Hanging Heaton, and on Jan. 5 of this year received a transfer to the vicarage of St. Hilda, Bilsdale, near Middleborough, England. Soothill has interesting traditions. After being driven from Elphinstone, Bishop Wilson resided at Soothill, and died there.

On Christmas Eve members of All Saints' church here sent Mr. Clay a cablegram containing congratulations and season's greetings.—Hannah Herald.

LET THE BUYER BEWARE!

Be ever on your guard against high pressure salesmen who induce you to sign notes. Things of doubtful value or far less value than represented, are foisted on the people for which they afterwards regret having obligated themselves. And some of the methods by which people are induced to sign notes for these articles amount to almost a racket. The moral is, don't sign notes. Dealing with the merchants in your home town is the more satisfactory way, for you at least get fair treatment and are dealing with those whom you know.

IS IT GOOD BUSINESS...

When asked by canvassers for printed matter, just stop to reflect that there are workmen employed in The Journal office who maybe are customers of your store, who pay town and school taxes, and that the money you pay for printing to your local office is likely to come back to you. The bigger volume of local business that is built up, the more we all benefit from it. If The Journal were able to secure all the printing required in Coleman, it could employ more men, who would become residents and do their part in community building.

From "Pertinent Topics" in the High River Times: We know a going concern, heavy in the red and going deeper. The latest estimate is that its deficit will be a million dollars a week, and yet it advertised for a loan of fifty million dollars, and got the money, too, at a very low rate of interest. How? Well, because your name and ours were placed on the back of the note as endorser, by the government of Canada, without asking our consent. There is nothing we can do about it, but once in a while it would be nice if the government would sign us up as endorsers of some project that gives promise of paying its way. We cannot hope for dividends because, if dividends were probable, the government would not affix our endorsing signatures to the bond issue.

What's "Bouclé"?

POSSIBLY you may have seen the word Bouclé here and there, throughout the Catalogue, usually in connection with a fabric or yarn. Do you know what it means?

Well, it's a French word meaning "curled." Bouclé refers to a fabric with loops that give a soft, rough, spongy appearance to the fabric. Usually these yarns are all-wool, but sometimes they're all-rayon, or sometimes wool with a cotton core. Those made from rayon are used greatly for knitting.

When the term is applied to women's' coat fabrics, it indicates that, as a rule, all-wool Bouclé is an all-over pattern in directions in the weaving of the fabric. This makes a lovely coating, usually found in higher-priced garments.

Occasionally you may be curious as to the meaning of some name and what it means. For example—Write to me and I will be glad to describe it for you and give you any information that is available concerning the particular material. On this and any other question pertaining to fashion, I am always at your service. Drop me a line and be sure of my personal attention.
